

Independent Facilitators Listing for Los Angeles County

Below is a list of individuals and companies who have notified the State Council on Developmental Disabilities, Los Angeles Office that they provide independent facilitation services in Los Angeles County. We cannot guarantee the quality of their work, the training they have received, or your satisfaction with their services. This listing is provided as a public service only and is not an endorsement of any person or company listed below.

An individual who serves as an independent facilitator is required to receive training in the principles of self-determination, the person-centered planning process and other responsibilities and roles of the independent facilitator. The independent facilitator shall meet standards and certification requirements established by the department [pursuant to Welfare and Institutions Code §4685.8 (c)(2)]. Participants should verify that the prospective independent facilitator has met the training requirements. Your regional center may also choose to verify this information.
