

California Department of Developmental Services presents Developing a Community of Practice

The California Department of Developmental Services, in partnership with Support Development Associates, is offering a series of virtual trainings on person-centered thinking and practices.

These trainings will be held via webinar, will help assure that key stakeholders, including individuals and their families, providers, and regional center staff are knowledgeable of, and understand the principles and application of person-centered thinking, practices and service planning.

Developing a Community of Practice

This training will provide participants with information on how to apply the concepts of person-centered practices. Participants will learn how to envision, structure, and plan for implementing lasting person-centered practices in partnership with individuals served, families, providers, and service systems.

Anyone interested is welcome to register and attend the training at no cost to training participants. Both trainings will cover the same information, so participants should only register for one training to preserve seats for others. There is a capacity limit of 500 attendees for each training, and your registration is not complete until you receive a confirmation email. The trainings will be recorded and posted to the DDS website.

When registering, please provide any needed accommodations.
